A Multi-level, Multi-Sector Oral Health Policy Initiative to Reduce Oral Health Disparities and Achieve Health Equity: Early Lessons from the Maryland Model

Harry Goodman, DMD, MPH (Confirmed)
Former State of Maryland Dental Director

The state of Maryland’s oral health policy initiative experience serves as a case study. This experience was stimulated by the tragic death of Deamonte Driver in 2007 and highlights actions taken, and lessons learned.

Dr. Goodman will discuss his story of Maryland's response to this tragic event, interventions that received strong support from state congressional and state legislative leaders, senior government leadership, multiple community and professional groups, foundations, and funding agencies. Dr. Goodman will discuss how this experience can be used to inform other states that are working to enhance oral health access as well as health promotion and oral disease prevention strategies, or other health conditions, for vulnerable populations.
